FACT SHEET

WHAT: The KinderVision® National Child Safety Education Program is making its 6th All Star appearance as Major League Baseball highlights KinderVision during all five days of All-Star FanFest. Since 1991 KinderVision has provided free valuable safety education information families can take to protect their children from harm. KinderVision® founder, Douglas Sebastian, will attend the events and be available for on-site or in-studio interviews regarding child abduction and child safety education issues from Friday, July 8 through Tuesday, July 12, 2005. KinderVision is a very popular attraction every year. Participating families receive a free personalized KinderVision Child Safety Education Video in either English or Spanish with their children recorded on the end of the video making learning fun. Major League Baseball is a recipient of the KinderVision Crystal Angel Award, KinderVision's highest award. Rollie Fingers, member of the Baseball Hall of Fame, KinderVision National Spokesperson and KinderVision Crystal Angel Award recipient will also make an appearance at the KinderVision booth during FanFest.

WHO: KinderVision®, a 501©3 non-profit organization, was created in 1991 in San Diego as a result of the work Sebastian performed on behalf of Leticia Hernandez, a seven-year-old kidnapping and murder victim. Sebastian assisted in raising reward fun monies for the arrest of the perpetrator(s). During the experience, Sebastian discovered that no educational programs existed with a focus on prevention and he founded KinderVision® to fill that need.

In October 2002, Sebastian was invited by President Bush to attend the White House Conference on Missing, Exploited and Runaway Children to discuss issues such as the Amber Alert, educating parents about how to keep their children safe and creating public, private and media partnerships to foster the safety education of children.
